Safes for Wives.
The safety of combination safes in use in Wales is limited. Many causes have contributed to this result. In the first place burglary is not common, and "cracksmen" are practically unknown. Then, the danger from fire is not great when practically all the buildings are built of stone or brick. Police protection and fire prevention leave little to be desired along that line. Lastly, the conservative methods and the economical bent of business men of all classes make them satisfied with lock and key safes, some of very ancient patterns. Notwithstanding these facts, there is an opening for combination safes on account of the number of new enterprises established annually, for safe dealers report that they frequently take orders for such safes. Ordinarily such safes are made to order, and the cheaper price of American safes should give them an advantage with such purchasers.

November Nomenclature.
November was called by the ancient Saxons the winter month, or wind month, on account of the gales then prevalent. It was also named the blot month, or blood month, from the ancient practice of then slaughtering cattle for the winter provisions. It is said that the Roman senators wished to name the month after Tiberius, as months had already been named after Julius Caesar and Augustus, but the emperor, like Canute, felt that it was possible to have too much flattery and refused, remarking: "What will you do, conscript fathers, if you have 12 Caesars?"
